Here Is Law Assessor Took Oath to Enforce

In his February 8th statement rejecting the property reassessment program put forth by the Hope School District and the local real estate association Hempstead County Tax Assessor Carter Sutton said he couldn't find any law that provided for such appraisal.

Therefore, said Mr. Sutton, he could neither challenge nor investigate the voluntary assessment filings of the taxpayers.

Obviously Mr. Sutton is severely handicapped in his attempt to serve as a public official. He began by taking an oath to carry out the law respecting his office — and he ends a year and a half later by pleading total ignorance as to what the law is.

Here is what Arkansas law says about the duties of a County Tax Assessor (84. 442):

"House to house canvass of county. — In the year 1929, and each year thereafter, the Assessor shall after the 10th day of April make a house-to-house canvass of his county and visit each store, mill, factory, shop or other place of business and each dwelling, farm, and all other places of residence located therein for the purpose of ascertaining if all property and persons have been listed for assessment in the manner required by law. If the Assessor shall find that any person or property owner has failed to file the assessment list by law required, or if filed, has failed to truly value any items of property included therein, or has omitted any item of property therefrom, said Assessor shall assess all such persons for a per capita or poll tax AND SHALL APPRAISE AND ASSESS at such sum as in his judgment is just and equitable all property listed by the owner but not truly valued and all property which has not been listed as by law required." (Acts 1929, No. 172, 13, p. 841; Pope's Dig. 13664) (Capitalization furnished for emphasis)

Mr. Sutton stands convicted of breaking his oath of office by non-performance, and aggravating the offense by expressing open hostility toward other public agencies which offer to help on a job he's not doing.

He says he's only a clerk, but he operates on the budget of a sure-enough administrator — with the highest expense of any County Tax Assessor here the last 12 years.

A score of Arkansas counties have employed the reassessment program Hempstead tried in 1958 and is seeking to revive today — and Mr. Sutton is the only Tax Assessor in the state, as far as your editor knows, who has refused to go along with the principles of fairness and justice, not to mention the text of the law.

Carter Sutton is a discredited public servant. Vote him out next Tuesday.

U.S. Is Over a Barrel in Latin America

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is over a barrel.

It reacted strongly against military seizure of power in Peru last week. This probably won't last long. It had similar reactions in other places and wound up doing business.

It didn't like the military coup which threw out the president of Korea in 1961. Before year's end President Kennedy and junta boss Gen. Chung Hee Park were reaffirming the two countries' "strong bonds of friendship."

When the military in Argentina last March disliked the elections results and threw out the president, this country hesitated about giving recognition. It waited three weeks and gave the recognition.

In other countries in Latin America—Paraguay, Haiti, Nicaragua, Guatemala—it has given recognition to dictatorship governments of one kind or another.

And, among other countries, it has diplomatic relations with two of the most persistent, contemporary dictatorships—Spain and Portugal—and has bases on their territory.

By the very nature of its policy — encouraging democracies—the United States can't afford to welcome military coups or dictatorships without some show of hesitancy.

But by the very nature of its dilemma—in trying to stop communism—it apparently feels it can't afford to shut the door on anti-Communist regimes, even though they are anti-Democratic. Yet, American recognition of anti-Democratic governments can-

Last Weekend Candidates Get in Final Licks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The incumbent Gov. Orval E. Faubus continued to absorb the brunt of stinging criticism as the Arkansas Democratic gubernatorial race faced its last weekend before Tuesday's primary.

Television continued to be the favorite medium Friday night of most candidates, with former Gov. Sid McMath, Kenneth Coffelt, Vernon Whitten and Dale Alford taking advantage to reach wide audiences.

Faubus spoke in the northeast section of the state, while David A. Cox appeared at Stuttgart.

In one new development, Coffelt told his listeners at Texarkana that if elected he would serve but one two-year term and then return the office to the voters.

He accused Faubus of joining "rich lobbyists" and said the governor has appointed so many members of the state Highway Commission that the Mack-Blackwell amendment no longer functions properly.

The Little Rock attorney declared that in 1959 "Faubus joined up with the rich lobby and heavy trucks and allowed the special permit trucks — one weighing 74,000 pounds — to tear up the highways."

In a different sort of attack on Faubus, Whitten announced via television that he has instructed his attorneys to file suit against the governor "to answer charges of slander, character assassination and numerous other things..."

The Mount Holly businessman said "the present governor either promised, threatened or indicated on his TV program last night (Thursday night) that he would expose my service record with the State Police."

Then Whitten calmly invited the governor to do so.

Also on the program, Whitten displayed what he described as a photostatic copy of an absentee ballot from Phillips County with his name omitted.

Whitten said the voter who received the faulty ballot July 12 had never received a corrected one. He promised to look into the matter today.

Alford, showing renewed vigor, appeared on television sitting in an easy chair and said that recent response to his campaign has given him "a new spirit, a new feeling of enthusiasm."

The show was on tape. At El Dorado, Alford told a crowd of some 700 that at least one person present had been threatened because he was on the congressman's bandwagon.

Touching on a local issue, Alford noted there was no bridge over the Ouachita River on state Highway 15 at Moro Bay and pledged to get one if elected.

Another pledge by Alford went to the independent oil producers whom he told he would help in restoring their place in the state's economy.

Sid McMath spoke at Batesville Friday night, but also had a taped five-minute telecast.

PTA Crowd Hears 2 for Tax Office

A lightly-attended meeting called by local Parent-Teacher Associations in the senior high school auditorium Friday night heard Lahory Spates and C. H. Partin, candidates for Hempstead County Tax Assessor, make policy statements.

Mr. Spates, Democrat, and Mr. Partin, Republican, along with the incumbent assessor, Carter Sutton, who is seeking re-election, had been sent invitations; but Mr. Sutton sent a letter to the meeting explaining that a prior engagement prevented him from attending.

The meeting was called by Mrs. Dora King, president of the Hope PTA Council; and Jack Gardner, president of the Senior-Junior School PTA.

Haskell Jones, who served as moderator, introduced the candidates and handled a question-and-answer program following their opening statements. Among those asking questions from the floor were: Mrs. Jack Gardner, Wayne Russell, Leo Ray, A. H. Washburn.

Hope School Superintendent James H. Jones told the meeting that the direct cost for each student in the local system is $178 per year — and said this is the lowest 10 per cent of Arkansas' 480 school districts.

Crossett to Lose Research Division

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — The Georgia-Pacific Corp. said Wednesday it will soon close the research division of the Crossett Co. at Crossett.

Georgia-Pacific recently bought the Crossett firm. About 30 employees will be affected by the closure. Georgia-Pacific said facilities of the two companies are being consolidated.

Apparently some of the men in the research division will be transferred to other Georgia-Pacific laboratories.

A statement by the corporation said research at the Crossett Division would be confined henceforth to technical control, quality control and product improvement in the paper production section.

Junta Happy U.S. Envoy Is Leaving

By FRANK N. MANITZAS

LIMA, Peru (AP)—U.S. Ambassador James Loeb took off for Washington today to report on the military seizure of power, and the junta made it clear it was glad to see him leave Peru.

A statement labeled semi-official but emanating from the foreign ministry said Loeb's departure would tend to ease "existing tension between the two countries." It accused him of helping to create "a climate of misunderstanding in Washington," which cut off aid to Peru after the military's coup last week.

Asked about the charges, Loeb told newsmen at the airport, "I have heard about the statement and the foreign ministry will deny it." He said he hoped to return to Lima after he reports personally to President Kennedy.

Police Wednesday night broke up a demonstration of 500 students protesting the overthrow of President Manuel Prado and shouting "down with dictatorship." The rally was addressed by speakers identified as members of the leftist, but anti-Communist, American Popular Revolutionary Alliance.

In Caracas, the Venezuelan foreign ministry said eight nations out of a required 11 have now asked for a hemisphere meeting of foreign ministers to protest the coup in Peru. The ministry said Ecuador and Salvador have joined Venezuela, Colombia, Costa Rica, Honduras, Panama and the Dominican Republic in demands for the meeting. It added that Guatemala was seriously studying the proposal.

In Rio de Janeiro, however, a spokesman for the Brazilian foreign ministry said Brazil opposes the hemisphere meeting because it would smack of intervention in Peruvian affairs.

The semi-official statement on Loeb said, in part: "It is believed that the U.S. diplomat has, without regard to his specific mission, made incursions in the field of internal politics, showing clear predilection for one of the presidential candidates."

Texans Plan Big Digging for Cash

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Texas' Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said "the biggest digging Pecos ever had" is about to start after an associate of Billie Sol Estes speculated that the promoter may have hidden millions in cash in a pauper's grave.

Wilson made the statement in a telephone interview today with the Amarillo Globe-Times and added, "It's my judgment that Estes has a lot of money stashed somewhere."

The testimony about a pauper's grave came Thursday from Harold E. Orr at a Texas court of inquiry here.

Orr said Estes' enterprises received about $3.5 million that can't be accounted for.

New Strategy in Test Ban Negotiations

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is planning a new strategy for the nuclear test ban negotiations at Geneva, beginning with a blunt challenge to Russia to reverse its stand against international inspection safeguards.

President Kennedy and his advisers are reported ready to offer concessions in Western conditions for a test ban treaty based on new scientific information on the detection of sneak underground nuclear explosions.

But administration leaders have decided that there is no point in offering these concessions unless the Soviet Government is prepared to enter into serious negotiations on the whole inspection issue.

Kennedy has called U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean home from the Geneva disarmament conference. The action was announced following a White House meeting Friday between Kennedy and his principal advisers on the nuclear arms race and test ban treaty problems.

Dean, according to plans reported to have been mapped at Friday's conference, will be given full information on the new U.S. scientific findings to take back to Geneva at the end of next week.

This information, according to the recent Defense Department announcement, shows that with new instruments underground explosions may be detected over distances running into many hundreds of miles. Some advances also have been made in distinguishing between earth shocks due to nuclear blasts.

In the recent past, the United States and Britain, as the main Western nuclear powers, proposed 19 internationally staffed control posts on Soviet territory. The task of such posts would be to monitor earth shocks in the Soviet Union, as a means of detecting evidence of suspicious earth disturbances.

The Western powers also proposed between 12 and 20 inspection posts a year at the site of any suspicious shock waves.

The new scientific data, Kennedy's advisers agreed, would permit the number of on-site inspections and the number of control posts to be reduced. Some scientific advisers are known to have argued that international control posts inside the Soviet Union might be safely eliminated in the interest of getting a test ban treaty.

However, the White House meeting reportedly produced an accord that it would not be good strategy for the President to send Dean back to Geneva at this stage of the disarmament conference with a complete new package proposal containing the American concessions to the Soviet opposition to inspection. They felt that since the Soviet opposition is against any international inspection whatever, the real barrier to progress lies in Moscow.

Thus, authorities said, the plan now is to present the scientific findings at Geneva in the hope that this will bring a review and revision of Soviet policies on the critical inspection issue.

Largest Defense Bill to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The largest peacetime defense money bill in history has passed the House and gone to the Senate.

Passage there may be delayed by consideration of the administration's communications satellite bill.

The measure provides $48.6, 3-247,000 to pay, arm and operate the nation's military forces this fiscal year.

House passage Thursday was by voice vote.

Local Plant Is Perhaps the Only One in World to Include Elephant Canes in Production

By MARY ANITA LASETER

From sugar cane to walking canes, man has had them most of the time he has been on the earth. It didn't take more than a thousand years or so after Adam discovered the apple for some of his descendants to find that sweet something called "sugar cane."

It may very well have been used for a walking stick before it was eaten, but that would have made it doubly useful. What is more likely, and we have to depend upon assumption, there is less doubt about which came first when talking about canes than there is when talking about chickens and eggs. Early man needed helpful support as well as food.

The simple fact is that man must have adopted a crude knobbed-stick form of cane early in history. He used it at first for needed support, say for an injured foot, but in using it that way he also found it handy for minor uses ranging from striking objects to poking about. As others saw the helpfulness a cane afforded its first user, they also acquired such a "new-fangled" object.

Carrying a cane became quite "the thing to do." In the 17th, 18th, and 19th centuries, accessory uses of the cane became more important than its function as an aid to walking. The slim Malacca cane from Sumatra became the symbol of elegance to the strutting dandy preening himself on the boulevards. It was an essential part of the gentleman's posture of poise and nonchalance.

The modern canes which come to our aid now are sturdy without being bulky. They are designed and fitted to the individual with scientific exactness, and they are modeled to fill specific needs of a particular person. The surprising variety of canes found now include: collapsible with crook handle, tripod, men's and women's, pocket canes, folding canes, and glider canes. They are as apt to be made of lightweight metal as they are of the substance from which they derive their name.

A local industry makes a great deal of wooden canes from native hickory and some from ash, both materials being obtained within a 100 mile radius of Hope. To our knowledge, Split Hickory Co., Inc., is the only manufacturer of elephant canes, used by circuses, in the entire country. There is not too great a demand for this product, for the elephant population is not particularly large.

However, stockman canes are much more in use, and quite a few are produced at Split Hickory. They have three weights, heavy, medium, and light. The canes are of two shapes. Besides the usual round cane, an octagonal one is also made here.

In talking with the local manufacturers, it was learned that still another use for canes has been found. A number of advertising specialty companies find the cane an excellent way to promote their products by giving away canes with advertisements on them.

Do you think a cane will ever replace a book of matches in a political race?

Thinks Estes May Have Put Cash in Grave

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Speculation that Billie Sol Estes hid a fortune in a pauper's grave was given in testimony at a court of inquiry Thursday.

One of three men indicted with Estes on fraud and theft charges involving millions of dollars volunteered the buried treasure suggestion at a hearing which a New York chemical firm, facing a civil antitrust suit, tried to block.

Harold E. Orr, 31, president of Superior Manufacturing Co., said about $3½ million received by enterprises of Estes, the bankrupt West Texas financier, has disappeared.

Discussing a Pecos, Tex., mortuary owned by Estes, Orr testified he knew of only one funeral handled by it during the period the money vanished—a charity case.

"What was the place used for?" asked Atty. Frank Baughman.

"It is just my personal assumption," Orr said, "but I think it was so he could store all that loot in some poor old boy's grave."

Orr also testified:

1. Worthless notes and sales contract through which Superior Man-

Appeal of Prairie County Ruling

HAZEN, Ark. (AP)—The Prairie County Democratic Central Committee has decided to appeal to the state Supreme Court a ruling in Circuit Court that Hazen must have a municipal primary.

The committee adopted a resolution Wednesday that the court had no right or jurisdiction to say whether a primary should be held. Members will pay court costs.

The appeal will not prevent primary in this election since the Democratic primary is only five days away.

Prairie County usually bypasses primaries and votes on all candidates in November.

Thor Missile Blows Up and Burns

HONOLULU (AP)—A Thor missile blew up and burned on its launch pad Wednesday night as the United States failed for the third time in four tries to explode a high altitude nuclear device over tiny Johnston Island.

Cause of the missile failure was not known and there was no immediate word whether the Thor was deliberately destroyed.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington made the following announcement:

"The Thor booster designed to carry aloft a nuclear device for a high altitude test in the current U.S. nuclear test series in the Pacific was destroyed and burned on the launch pad tonight at about 11:15 p.m. (Hawaiian Standard Time)."

"There was no nuclear detonation. There was no immediate report of injury to personnel. Further details will be furnished as soon as possible."

The failure was another setback to U.S. missile prestige. The shot was to have been one of the last of the current Pacific test series which began three months ago Wednesday.

When President Kennedy originally announced the series he set a time limit of two to three months.

The only successful shot in the high altitude series was the biggest and highest on July 8. That explosion of a thermonuclear device was detonated 200 miles over Johnston Island and lit up the Pacific from New Zealand to Hawaii.

Rail Workers Threaten to Strike

CHICAGO (AP)—A strike has been threatened by the 200,000 union men who man the nation's trains in an attempt to keep railroads from revamping work rules which would eliminate thousands of jobs.

In a suit filed Thursday in U.S. District Court, the unions stated their intent to strike unless the railroads drop plans to enforce the work changes Aug. 17.

The suit, filed by unions of engineers, trainmen, conductors, brakemen, firemen and switchmen, requests the court to declare the carriers' proposed changes a violation of the Railway Labor Act.

The suit also applied for a permanent injunction to keep the management from adopting new rules, recommended in February by a presidential commission.

The work rules changes, the railroads contend, are aimed at eliminating what they call "featherbedding"—keeping on the payroll personnel whose jobs are unnecessary. The unions say the jobs are needed for safe and efficient operation.

Management estimated that "featherbedding" cost the carriers $500 million a year.

One of the first effects of the changes—announced July 17 by the railroads—would be dropping of the jobs of 13,000 firemen employed on diesel locomotives.

Some 27,000 other firemen working as second men in cabs and freight yard service would retain their positions. The proposed job cuts also do not affect firemen occupying second cab posts in diesels used in passenger service.

In taking the preventive action the unions were compelled to oppose favorable terms of the work changes. These included recommended pay increases for some 75 per cent of the operating employees.

Senate Leaders Fight Satellite Bill Filibuster

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate was called into Saturday Session today in a move to keep the pressure on filibustering foes of the administration's communications satellite bill.

The tactics of the few senators opposing the measure drew a rebuke from Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who ordered the extra session.

Meanwhile, Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, a backer of the bill, predicted the opposition of the handful of Democratic liberals could be overcome. Dirksen told newsmen Friday night he didn't believe more than a half-dozen senators were prepared for a sustained fight against the bill. No more than 17, he said, would vote against it.

The measure provides for a private corporation to own and run the U.S. portion of a global satellite system for relaying television, radio and telephone signals. The public would own half of the firm's stock. Communications companies would own the other half.

Several senators have offered a rival bill providing for government ownership. They contend the administration measure would be a "monstrous giveaway" to a private monopoly of the taxpayers' investment in the government's space program.

With other senate business stalled by the dispute, Mansfield promised to start each day's session early and continue it into the night.

But Mansfield said the leadership is virtually powerless to force action.

If opponents persist in their filibuster, the only way under the rules to halt them—other than wearing them down physically—is to clamp a time limit on debate.

Such a rule—requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting—has not been successfully invoked since 1927, despite numerous attempts to halt Southern filibusters against civil rights measures.

'Big Party' Planned for Teenagers

Saturday night entertainment spots in Hope may be somewhat drab and dreary this weekend as Evangelist Larry Taylor is throwing a "big party" for the Youth of Hope at First Baptist Church.

It won't be a "ball" nor a "blast." It might not even be "fabulous!"

There will be no hot jazz music, no boogie-woogie, no jitterbug, no blackbottom and not even the "twist!"

The "big party" that Larry has in mind is the reservation of twenty-three pews, embracing the entire south seating section, he hopes will be filled by teenagers and young people from all over Hope, regardless of denomination, faith or religion.

The setting will be something like this:

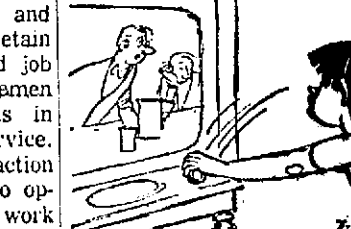

Soft organ music, and then Miss Sonja Joy Dairymple of the Ouachita College evangelistic team, will strike up a tune on the piano, setting the stage for Wordy Buckner, song leader, who will come forward to sing one or two beautiful hymns—probably "Amazing Grace" or "The Old Rugged Cross."

The stage is then all set for the main attraction—the appearance of the dynamic Larry Taylor, the young evangelist, who promises a stirring, soul-searching sermon on "This Old House."

If the holy spirit moves one teen-ager or young person then that person, says the evangelist, will experience a joy and satisfaction far beyond any experience that human ingenuity has ever devised.

The "big party" gets underway at 7:30 p. m. It's for adults, too!

U. S. Is Over

not avoid doing three things:

1. Give communism anti-American propaganda.

2. Add to the uneasiness of shaky Democratic governments trying to survive under pressure from left and right.

3. Create skepticism among some people in backward countries about the sincerity of the United States in their Democratic future.

If the United States tries to intervene on the side of a Democratic regime in Latin America, it can be accused of meddling in the people's affairs, a complaint the United States would like to avoid.

But if it refuses recognition of a right-wing government, and shuts off relations, it abandons any moderating force it might have asserted and leaves the field to a struggle between the far right and communism.

In Peru, where the military take-over is only 11 days old, American Ambassador James Loeb has been accused by the Peruvian foreign ministry of interfering in Peru's affairs.

The United States has suspended relations with the new regime and called Loeb home. Other Latin American countries — Mexico and Chile, for instance — have suspended relations, too.

Just as big as any other dilemma for the United States in Latin America is this:

How long can it keep on recognizing dictatorships — military or civilian — without encouraging more of the same until Kennedy's much-proclaimed Alliance for Progress looks like an empty gesture?

J. William Fulbright, is the biggest foreign aid lobbyist in Washington.

The Democratic hopeful said the incumbent senator promotes more than all the lobbyists combined.

Chandler noted that Fulbright helped rid the country of its rice surplus — by giving it away.

In an appearance at Berryville, Chandler accused Fulbright of cowardice and of lacking the courage to "come out and meet the people."

He said the only way Fulbright would speak publicly is before a "rigged" organizational meeting in air conditioned buildings.

DOROTHY DIX

This Time It's the Stepchildren!

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: It is as if I were beating my head against a wall of ice. Nothing is ever right in the eyes of my stepchildren. I want to love them but they won't let me. The boy might make peace were it not for his sister. She is the elder and dominant one. With her it has been an armed truce from the beginning. If I didn't care so much for their father, I'd quit trying to win them over. He loves me and — he loves them. That's what makes it so hard.

We met a year ago on a Caribbean cruise. His wife died when the children were small and he'd devoted himself to them. Last winter they went to boarding school. For the first time in a long while he shed responsibility. My story was a variation of the same theme: heavy responsibility toward my invalid mother, her death and a terrible loneliness. In desperation I took the cruise and, for much the same reason, so did the wonderful man who became my husband. We hit it off from the start. Never were two human beings happier. If it hadn't been for his children, we would have stayed on a leeward island for the rest of our lives. Instead, we were married in Washington where legal business (he's a lawyer) took him. The children came with an aunt, their mother's sister. What should have been the happiest occasion of my life was the most miserable. Teachers couldn't have been colder. And so it goes. Maybe my husband and I shouldn't have married. Do stepchildren ever thaw out? — Despairing.

Dear Despairing: Relax. You're overdoing it. Put yourself in the stepchildren's place. To them, you are a usurper. The more you strive to win their approbation, the warmer they will be. After all, it is but one short year since you, a complete stranger, suddenly appeared to threaten their way of life. Their coldness is, of course, jealousy and what is jealousy but fear. Steel yourself to ignore it. Be as natural as possible and have patience. The fact their father loves you is a big help. Just keep on loving him and them and you'll win out. I say that confidently having seen it work in my own family.

Dear Helen: You told in a recent column about your husband having discovered and developed mines in the Far West. Please ask him if there is an element of chance in grubstaking a prospector and does he know of any that actually works on the job. — Bert Bonnell, Dana, Indiana

Dear Mr. Bonnell: Since you gave me street address I am answering your query in my column, even though it does not involve an emotional problem — or maybe it does! Anyway, here is my husband's reply: In the early days grubstaking was a common practice and prospectors occasionally did find rich ore. Today, the old prospectors are no more. They have been replaced by elaborate units consisting of geophysicists, geologists and geochemists.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Mother Complex."

who work with a mobile laboratory handy. Metal prices being low, only big scale prospecting and mining pays. That takes plenty of capital. However, if the government had a change of heart toward its natural resources and put a premium on a metal like gold, as it once did on uranium, grubstaking the lone prospector would again be an interesting gamble.

Dear Helen: I am a possessive mother who knows it. My husband died when our only child, a boy, was 10-years old. Now that boy is 22. He and his girl plan to marry in September and the very thought almost kills me. My life has revolved around him so long I don't see how it will be possible to continue without him. Any advice? — Hopeless

Dear Hopeless: Recognition of your weakness is the first step toward recovery. If you really love your son, you will want him to lead his own life, not yours. Be a help not a hindrance. Pursue a hobby, develop a talent and work. Remember that old Quaker proverb, "When you pray move your feet." Practice it!

Two Score Wins in Tournament

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Batesville and Springdale scored first round victories Wednesday night in the 9th annual Arkansas Babe Ruth League baseball tournament.

Batesville beat Little Rock 18-8 and Springdale beat the Pine Bluff West team 6-5 in an extra inning. Paragould plays Hope and Bentonville meets Pine Bluff East tonight.

Springdale beat Pine Bluff West with two out in the seventh inning. Marvin Dandy was safe on an error and moved to third on a ground rule double by Guy Barila. He scored on a single by Joe Ginalto.

Barila gave up six hits in going the route for Springdale. Jerry Simpson was the loser.

Jerry Luellen started for Batesville against Little Rock and was the winner. He was relieved in the sixth in which Little Rock scored seven runs, by Kenny Frenzell.

The teams are all-star aggregations from the various towns.

SUCCESS

By STEVE APRIL

Marvin, a plump man who made a comfortable living as a diamond cutter, was proud of his kids and wife, and had been full of dreams for the future.

But soon after his 43rd birthday Marvin suffered a heart attack, was confined to a hospital for nearly ten weeks. When he recovered from the initial shock, the future didn't look too bad. Marvin had hospitalization, a few bucks in the bank, and his trade wasn't hard physical work.

After the usual months of rest, Marvin returned to work. Cutting a diamond calls for intense concentration and Marvin soon found he couldn't focus his mind on the lines and planes of the gem before him. A small part of his brain was constantly wondering: Will I live to finish this job?

The result was Marvin lacked his old confidence in his skill. Before his attack he had been averaging $8,000 a year. The year after his sickness he barely made $4,000. The following year Marvin made even less, and during the third year his savings vanished and he couldn't find work.

Marvin was frantic with worry. He felt fenced in. The only job his damaged heart would allow him to do was diamond cutting, and he could no longer do it fast enough. He hunted for other jobs, but soon learned a man of 45 is considered "old," besides his lack of experience in any other field closed all doors, except manual labor, which his ticker couldn't take.

His wife, who hadn't worked in over 20 years, found a parttime job which didn't begin to pay their bills.

Marvin thought things out coldly. With his G. I. insurance and some union policies, he was worth $20,000 dead. Since he might not be able to keep up the payments on the policies, and he could drop dead any second, why prolong his useless life? Marvin hated the thought of suicide, but the insurance would see his family through until the kids finished college and started earning a living.

Marvin calmly considered the means of self-destruction, rejecting anything obvious as a gun, jumping off a bridge because he couldn't leave the shame of a suicide on his family.

The doctor had especially warned Marvin to be careful about colds. Pneumonia caused many heart deaths. On the day their electricity was shut off for non-payment and his wife had to borrow from her mother again, Marvin carefully placed his policies in the desk drawer where his wife could easily find them, made certain he had identification in his pockets, said he wanted to get some air.

He walked a few blocks, then began to run. He was soon panting and puffing, but alive, to his amazement. Marvin was sweating. He sat on a park bench and opened his coat and shirt, rubbed snow on his pale skin, even kicked off his shoes. After a half hour, when he was numb with cold and soaking wet, he collapsed in a feverish coma.

Two days and dozens of wonder drug shots later, Marvin opened his eyes to see several doctors staring down at him with awe. The next day he was hungry, able to eat a little. On the following day he was well enough to be discharged from the hospital. Marvin was sullen. Even in death he'd been a failure.

As he was dressing, one of the doctors told him, "We've confirmed what your wife told us, that you suffered a severe coronary thrombosis some years ago. It's a medical miracle you've survived your fall in the snow."

"Some miracle," Marvin mumbled, wondering how he could try it again.

"The hospital is connected with a medical college. We'd be interested in a thorough study of your heart, for our research. Mean a year's close observation and..."

"Who has a year?" Marvin asked.

"Frankly your heart may carry you for many years, or merely minutes. Which is why our research is of utmost importance. This would be in the nature of a job for you, most nights you could go home, but every day we would examine and test you. Naturally, there would be a salary, about $100 weekly, plus meals and medical attention. Are you interested?"

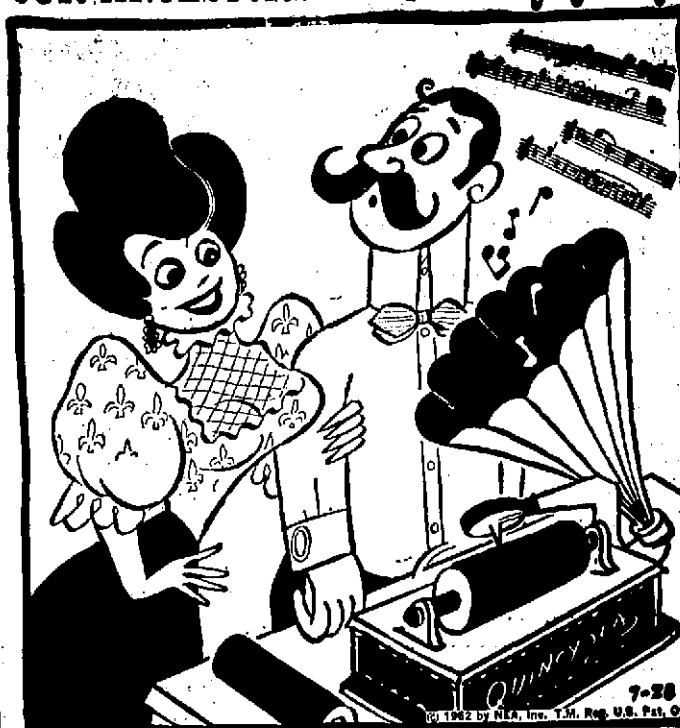

"Am I interested? I accept! When do I start?"

"You're on salary, as of today. But we want you to rest, then return next week."

Marvin was so anxious to tell his wife the great news, he ran out of the hospital...

Thinks Estes

facturing obtained the money funneled $18 million to Estes. Coleman T. McSpadden, 45, of Lubbock, majority stockholder in the firm, got $2 million in the same manner.

2. Representatives of several finance firms were aware that thousands of fertilizer tanks on which they loaned the money didn't exist.

3. Estes conferred on numerous occasions with representatives of Commercial Solvents Corp., New York supplier of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer which Estes distributed at drastically cut prices in an effort to corner the West Texas market.

4. More than one threat has been made on Orr's life since he gave FBI agents information about Estes' operations in March. He gave no details.

5. Fictitious collateral supported the notes through which Orr, McSpadden and three other men raised $380,000 to buy Superior Manufacturing Co. on April 27, 1960 — the date on which other dealings in worthless securities started. Robert E. Clements of Amarillo, who sold the tank-building firm, was aware of some of these dealings.

Orr said he and Ruel W. Alexander, 63, of Amarillo shared an $82,000 interest in Superior Manufacturing, borrowing $80,000 from Estes and putting up $2,000 out of Orr's personal savings. He said McSpadden's share was $202,000.

Other purchasers of Superior Manufacturing were listed by Orr as R. W. Davis of Fowler, Colo., $20,000; and John W. Simmons of Wildorado, Tex., $78,000.

Orr, Alexander and McSpadden have pleaded guilty to federal charges of fraud, under an indictment also naming Estes, and await sentencing. Estes also has been indicted on state charges of theft. Orr, Alexander and McSpadden are free on bond.

Waiting to testify were McSpadden, Alexander and Claude D. Lewsader of Pecos, formerly a pilot for Estes and Superior Manufacturing.

Orr said representatives of Pacific Finance Co. of Los Angeles appeared at his Amarillo office last Feb. 22, told Alexander they knew everything, and demanded payment of $4,300,000 owed by Superior Manufacturing. At a conference the next day, Orr said he told the Pacific Finance men that crushed him. But Marvin was certainly dead.

Arts Group Gets Armory Building

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — The El Dorado Fine Arts Association announced Thursday night it had been successful in its bid to purchase the National Guard Armory at El Dorado.

The group plans to convert the building into a fine arts center. Construction of a new armory is to begin in August and is expected to be completed by Jan. 1. The guardsmen will continue to use the old building until the new structure is completed.

The arts group bid $45,000 for the old facility Thursday. A previous bid of $35,000 was rejected as insufficient by the Arkansas Military Department.

The armory is to be converted for use by the Art League, the Little Theater, the South Arkansas Symphony Association and various other fine arts organizations in the city.

Estes' storage elevators held 30 million bushels of surplus grain on which government rental payments were uncommitted.

Orr said he then saw Estes, who had told him income from the 30 million bushels of stored grain was clear.

"Estes just laughed," Orr testified, "and said: 'Man, I've got double and triple mortgages on everything I own. I don't know why I'm here. Take me to jail! He scared all of us to death.'"

During the same conversation Orr said Estes told him: "I'm going to a federal pen—and I'm going to beat back home whoever takes me there."

DICK HUIE
CHANCELLOR

I have endeavored, as far as possible, to see each of you personally, but the size of our Chancery District (nine counties), prevents such a personal solicitation. I therefore take this means of asking for your very careful consideration, and if in doubt, suggest that you consult your personal attorney. He is in a position to know the facts and give you sound advice.

This, then, is my personal appeal to you, and upon your decision at the polls rests the future of the quality of your Chancery Court for years to come. I am confident you will make the right decision.

Sincerely,

DICK HUIE

Reds Finally Plug Hole in Infield

CINCINNATI (AP) - Leo Cardenas, a skinny Cuban, and Don Blasingame, a lanky Mississippi-an, have finally plugged the defensive infield hole that caused the Cincinnati Reds brass to fret.

The National League champions were a month into the 1962 season when Manager Fred Hutchinson said dourly:

"We have been playing bad ball defensively both in the infield and the outfield. The Reds are making too many mistakes for a championship club."

In the last month, however, any trouble through the middle apparently has been ironed out by the two 5-foot-10 infielders.

There's been a fringe benefit, too: Cardenas, who weighs only 154, and Blasingame, at 160, have started to produce some heavy hitting.

Blasingame has been the steady.

Spahn Has a 20-Game Yr. in His Sights

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) - Milwaukee southpaw wonder Warren Spahn set his sights on another 20-victory campaign Thursday—mindful of a tough job ahead.

After defeating the hapless New York Mets 6-1 for his 10th triumph, Spahn, 41, said: "What I've done in April, May, June and July, I've got to do in two months."

With only 560 games left on the Braves' schedule, Spahn admitted his immediate goal is eight more victories. That would enable him to go ahead of Eddie Plank as baseball's winningest left-hander with 327.

"However, I'm shooting for 20, too," the 380,000-a-year veteran said. "I think I'm paid to win 20 and I won't quit trying to reach that mark until it's impossible. I think I've got a good shot."

Spahn moved into seventh place among all-time strikeout kings by fanning five Mets for a career total of 2,274. He passed Lefty Grove, a Hall of Fame member, who had 2,271.

Despite Spahn's record of 10 victories and 11 losses, which includes five one-run setbacks, he is ahead of last year's pace when he posted a 21-13 mark. He won his 10th game last year on July 30th, triggering a string of 10 straight triumphs.

"I'm hoping I can have the same kind of finish," Spahn said. "I feel as good as ever and I'm satisfied with my pitching (3.09 ERA)."

"Actually, I think I've pitched more consistently this year than in 1961. It took me a long time to find myself last season. This year I lost some close ones in which I pitched pretty well."

Estate to College

HUGHES, Ark. (AP) - A portion of the $41,000 estate of Wooten Anderson, prominent east Arkansas planter who died in 1954 was turned over to the Arkansas College at Monticello Thursday. Other recipients were two Presbyterian institutions and the Vera Lloyd Home at Monticello.

est afield. He said, "I have more confidence this season, but when you are fielding well, the hitting also improves."

The oddity of Cardenas' work has been that he can make the difficult, seemingly impossible, stops yet sometimes fouls up the easy ones.

But in 25 games this month, Cardenas batted .311, drove in 10 runs and scored 10 times.

Blasingame in 25 games has batted .270, driving in 4 runs and scoring 11.

Cardenas' play in the series with Pittsburgh, which ended Thursday night, has been so good that one of the Pirate players asked:

"Has he been playing against every other team the way he is playing against us?"

Knudson Takes Lead at Montreal

MONTREAL (AP) - Toronto's George Knudson shot a 5-under-par 67 for a 2-stroke first round lead in the $30,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship Thursday, but the big news broke shortly after midnight with the disqualification of South Africa's Gary Player who only last Sunday won the United States PGA title.

Hours after Knudson and the rest of the field had finished the rain-delayed first round, Player disqualified himself for reporting a 75 instead of a 76. He told officials of the Royal Canadian Golf Association that he suddenly realized, long after play had ended, that he had taken a seven on the par-five, 510-yard 10th hole instead of a six.

J. P. Anglin, chairman of the RCGA rules committee, said he appreciated the sportsmanlike attitude of Player in reporting the situation himself.

"But we have no other alternative," said Anglin. He referred to the RCGA rule which states: "If the competitor returns a score for any hole than actually played he shall be disqualified."

Much of Knudson's round was shot during a driving rain that held up play for an hour at one point.

Bobby Brue of Milwaukee held a 120-yard wedge shot on the 18th for an eagle three and finished with 69, for a second place tie with George Bayer of Miami, Ron Thomas of Durham, N.C., and Don Fairfield of Perdido Bay, Fla.

U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus had a steady 70, with a birdie on each nine and pars on all the other holes. Defending champion Jacky Cupit of Longview, Tex., had a 71.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Sonny Nunez proved his point: There is big money in prize fighting.

Bigness, you see, is a relative thing, especially in the matter of money.

Never in the 22 years of life of Audito T. Nunez did he have more than barely enough of it.

He was born and lived in the family's old adobe house in Glendale's old town where simple survival is the essence of living.

After a few months, he quit high school because he had no money for textbooks. Besides, his labors were needed to help feed five brothers and sisters.

He earned $1 an hour packing fruit and melons, piecework of uncertain steadiness. Once he brought home $9.50 for a single week of washing cars.

Always he dreamed of improving himself.

"There's big money in prize fighting," Sonny assured his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sacramento Nunez. "I'll show you."

In the cellar of the family home he made up a makeshift gym.

He advanced through the Golden Gloves to the finals before he lost a fight. A month ago he won in a boxing benefit for crippled children.

And then he decided he was ready for the money.

He confided only to his brother, Joe, that he suffered pains from a neck injury received in training.

He said nothing about it to his trainer or to the doctor at the routine examination Wednesday for his first professional bout.

After all, there was big money in prospect—$40 for four rounds of three minutes action with a minutes' rest between each, more than $2 for every minute in the ring.

And as it turned out Sonny didn't fight the last minute.

After three rounds of anything but a gruelling, pounding encounter, Sonny and his opponent were even in points on the officials' scorecards. Then his opponent feinted with a left and Sonny ducked—smack into a hard right on the side of his face.

He was counted out of the bout and out of life.

"I made a mess of things," he said as his trainer tried to arouse him. He was taken unconscious to a hospital. Within three hours he was dead of brain damage.

Coroner Al J. Flood has scheduled an inquest for Wednesday.

"We have information there's an old injury that may be a contributing factor," said Flood.

And Thursday the Nunez family was trying to find a way to stretch Sonny's first and last pugilistic purse over the costs of a Christian burial.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a byproduct of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we that the church should go to the church of our choice with our children should go to the church in you on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

P. O. Box 211, Ft. Worth, Tex.

YOU have called a man to become your minister; you have chosen him with calm deliberation...with great care. That means that you desire a spiritual church in the service and worship of God.

THE minister is your prophet, even as he is also the prophet of the Most High. It follows that you have promised to harken to the message which that "preacher-prophet" is to bring. Else, why did you make him your minister? He expects, through prayer and meditation, to find the will of God for himself and for you and for our world. Listen then to what the divine purpose for you may be!

THE preacher is the leader of his people, under the Spirit of God. How necessary that there shall be women and men to follow where he marks out the path of Christian living! That likely means regular attendance at the services of prayer in your church. It means also an eager listening to the Scriptural exposition, in which men find what God has for them to be and to do, as well as the blessed aid of His Spirit in all one's efforts.

THE Church is a fellowship of women and men, inspired by the example and the teaching of the Master, united about the Spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ, and committed with Him to the coming of the Kingdom of God upon the earth. It takes us all together to create and to maintain such a healing and strengthening and comforting fellowship. You and I need the divine comradeship which the church affords. Let's do our part to make a good church in our community; God will do His part, we may be sure. As much so as does the Preacher, we have a ministry to carry out. "Take heed to the ministry which thou hast received in the Lord, that thou fulfill it..." Attend your church.
